```
In [1]: ## Import basic python libraries import numpy as np
        import pandas as pd
         import seaborn as sns
         import matplotlib.pyplot as plt import warnings
        warnings.filterwarnings('ignore')
In [2]: # Import dataset
        data1=pd.read csv(r'C:\Users\anith\OneDrive\Documents\anil.csv')
In [3]: data1.head()
            Loan_ID Gender Married Dependents Education Self_Employed ApplicantIncome CoapplicantIncome LoanAmount Loan_Amount_Terr
Out[3]:
        0 LP001002
                       Male
                                No
                                            0 Graduate
                                                                  No
                                                                                5849
                                                                                                  0.0
                                                                                                             NaN
        1 LP001003
                       Male 4583
                                                                                               1508.0
                                                                                                            128.0
                                                                                                                              360.
                               Yes
                                                Graduate
                                                                  No
        2 LP001005
                       Male
                                            0 Graduate
                                                                 Yes
                                                                                3000 0.0
                                                                                                             66.0
                                                                                                                              360.
                                                    Not 2583
                                                                                               2358.0
        3 LP001006
                                            0
                                                                                                            120.0
                                                                                                                              360.
                       Male
                               Yes
                                                                  No
                                                Graduate
        4 LP001008
                                                                                6000
                       Male
                                No
                                            0 Graduate
                                                                  No
                                                                                                  0.0
                                                                                                            141.0
                                                                                                                              360.
In [4]: # Dealing the missing values
        data1.isnull().sum()
        Loan ID
Out[4]:
        Gender
                               13 Married
                                3 Dependents
                               15 Education
                                0 Self_Employed
                               32 ApplicantIncome
                                0 0 CoapplicantIncome
                               22 LoanAmount
        Loan Amount Term
                               14
        Credit History
                               50
        Property_Area
                                0
        Loan_Status
                                0 dtype: int64
In [5]:
        # Remove the missingvalues
        data1.dropna(inplace=True)
        data1.isnull().sum()
                               0
        Loan_ID
Out[5]:
        Gender
                               0 Married
                               0 Dependents
                               0 Education
                               0 Self Employed
                               0 ApplicantIncome
                               0
        {\tt CoapplicantIncome}
                               0 LoanAmount
                               0
        Loan Amount Term
                               0
        Credit_History
                               0 Property Area
                               0
        Loan Status
        dtype: int64
In [6]: data1.shape
        (480, 13)
Out[6]:
```

In [7]: data1

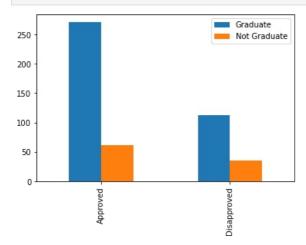

Out[7]:		Loan_ID	Gender	Married	Dependents	Education	Self_Employed	ApplicantIncome	CoapplicantIncome	LoanAmount	Loan_Amount_T
	1	LP001003	Male	Yes	1	Graduate	No	4583	1508.0	128.0	36
	2	LP001005	Male	Yes	0	Graduate	Yes	3000	0.0	66.0	36
	3	LP001006	Male	Yes	0	Not Graduate	No	2583	2358.0	120.0	36
	4	LP001008	Male	No	0	Graduate	No	6000	0.0	141.0	36
	5	LP001011	Male	Yes	2	Graduate	Yes	5417	4196.0	267.0	36
	609	LP002978	Female	No	0	Graduate	No	2900	0.0	71.0	36
	610	LP002979	Male	Yes	3+	Graduate	No	4106	0.0	40.0	18
	611	LP002983	Male	Yes	1	Graduate	No	8072	240.0	253.0	36
	612	LP002984	Male	Yes	2	Graduate	No	7583	0.0	187.0	36
	613	LP002990	Female	No	0	Graduate	Yes	4583	0.0	133.0	36
	400

480 rows × 13 columns

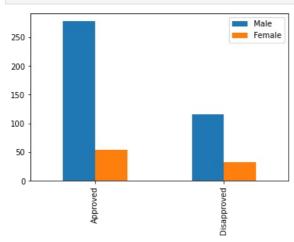

```
In [8]: ### Visualization###
def bar_chart(col):
    Approved = data1[data1["Loan_Status"]=="Y"][col].value_counts()
    Disapproved = data1[data1["Loan_Status"]=="N"][col].value_counts()

    df1 = pd.DataFrame([Approved, Disapproved])
    df1.index = ["Approved", "Disapproved"]
    df1.plot(kind="bar")
```

In [9]: bar_chart('Education')

In [10]: bar_chart('Gender')

```
In [11]: bar_chart('Credit_History')
```

```
300 - 250 - 200 - 150 - 50 - 0 - pavouddy gdg gg g
```

0

2

3+

1

0

Graduate

Graduate

Graduate

Graduate

Graduate

Graduate

Graduate

Male

Male

Female

Male

Male

Male

5

609

610

611

612

613 Female

data.head()

No

Yes

No

Yes

Yes

Yes

Nο

```
#checking the skewness (acceptable range is -5 to +5)
In [12]:
          data1.skew()
          {\tt ApplicantIncome}
                                  6.917027
          CoapplicantIncome
                                  5.881622
          LoanAmount
                                  2.361437
          Loan Amount Term
                                 -2.333710
          Credit History
                                 -2.013253
          dtype: float64
In [13]: data=data1.drop(['Loan ID'],axis=1)
In [14]:
Out[14]:
               Gender
                      Married Dependents Education Self_Employed ApplicantIncome
                                                                                  CoapplicantIncome LoanAmount Loan_Amount_Term Credit
            1
                 Male
                          Yes
                                            Graduate
                                                               No 4583
                                                                                             1508.0
                                                                                                           128.0
                                                                                                                              360.0
            2
                                        0 3000 0.0
                                                                                                            66.0
                                                                                                                              360.0
                 Male
                          Yes
                                            Graduate
                                                              Yes
                                                Not 2583
                                                                                             2358.0
                                                                                                           120.0
                                                                                                                              360.0
            3
                 Male
                          Yes
                                        0
                                                               No
                                            Graduate
```

No

Yes

No

Nο

No

No

Yes

6000

5417

2900

4106

8072

7583

4583

0.0

0.0

0.0

0.0

0.0

240.0

4196 0

141.0

267.0

71.0

40.0

253.0

187.0

133.0

360.0

360.0

360.0

180 0

360.0

360.0

360.0

```
480 rows × 12 columns
In [15]:
         data['Dependents'].unique()
         array(['1', '0', '2', '3+'], dtype=object)
Out[15]:
In [16]:
         data['Dependents']=data['Dependents'].replace('3+',4)
In [17]:
         data['Dependents'].unique()
         array(['1', '0', '2', 4], dtype=object)
Out[17]:
In [18]:
         data['Dependents']=data['Dependents'].astype('int')
In [19]:
         data['Dependents'].unique() array([1, 0, 2, 4])
Out[19]:
In [20]:
         #by using ordinal encoder converting vectors
         from sklearn.preprocessing import OrdinalEncoder encoder = OrdinalEncoder() data[["Gender",'Married','Education','Self Employed','Property Area','Loan Status']] = encoder.fit transform(da
```

```
Gender Married Dependents Education Self_Employed Applicantlncome Coapplicantlncome LoanAmount Loan_Amount_Term Credit_H
Out[20]:
                   1.0
                             1.0
                                            1
                                                      0.0
                                                                      0.0 4583
                                                                                                          1508.0
                                                                                                                         128.0
                                                                                                                                              360.0
            2
                   1.0
                             1.0
                                            0
                                                      0.0
                                                                      1.0
                                                                                       3000 0.0
                                                                                                                          66.0
                                                                                                                                              360.0
            3
                   1.0
                             1.0
                                            0
                                                                      0.0
                                                                                      2583
                                                                                                         2358.0
                                                                                                                         120.0
                                                                                                                                              360.0
                                                      1.0
            4
                    1.0
                             0.0
                                            0
                                                      0.0
                                                                      0.0
                                                                                       6000
                                                                                                             0.0
                                                                                                                         141.0
                                                                                                                                              360.0
            5
                                            2 5417
                                                                                                                                              360.0
                   1.0
                             1.0
                                                      0.0
                                                                      1.0
                                                                                                         4196.0
                                                                                                                         267.0
```

In [21]: #encoding the features are float we convert into integer data[["Gender",'Married','Education','Self_Employed','Property_Area','Loan_Status']]=data[["Gender",'Married','

In [22]: data

Out[22]: Gender Married Dependents Education Self_Employed ApplicantIncome CoapplicantIncome LoanAmount Loan_Amount_Term Credit 1 1 0 0 4583 1508.0 128 0 360.0 2 0 0 1 3000 0.0 66.0 360.0 3 0 1 0 2583 2358.0 120.0 360.0 0 0 0 0 6000 0.0 141 0 360.0 4 2 5 1 1 0 1 5417 4196.0 267.0 360.0 609 0 0 0 0 0 2900 0.0 360.0 71.0 610 4 0 0 4106 0.0 40.0 180.0 611 1 0 0 8072 240.0 253.0 360.0 2 0 0 7583 0.0 187.0 360.0 612

1

4583

0.0

133.0

360.0

480 rows × 12 columns

0

0

In [23]: #seeing the outliers

613 data.plot(kind='box', subplots=True, layout=(3,5), figsize=(20,20))

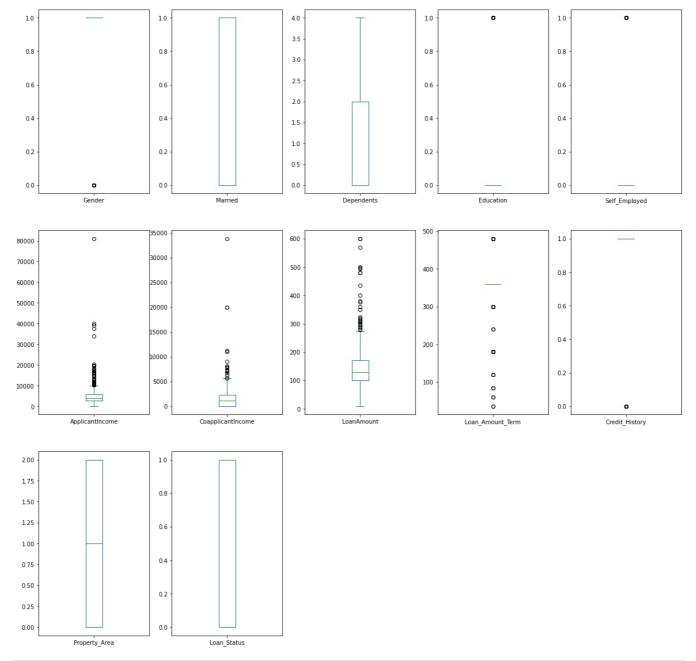

0

0

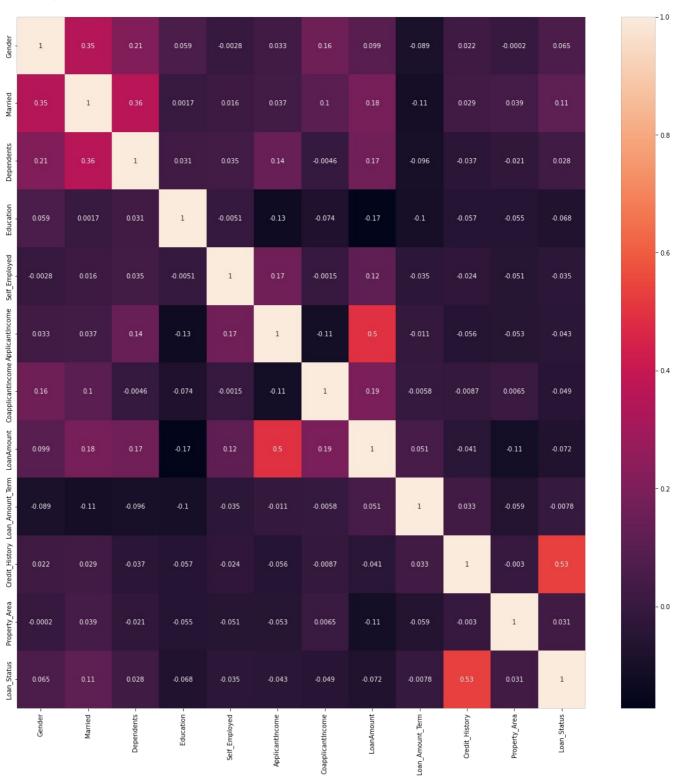

Out[23]:

Gender
Married
Dependents
Education
Self_Employed
ApplicantIncome
CoapplicantIncome
LoanAmount
Loan_Amount_Term
Credit_History
Property_Area
Loan_Status
dtype: object

AxesSubplot(0.125,0.657941;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.285345,0.657941;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.44569,0.657941;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.606034,0.657941;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.766379,0.657941;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.125,0.391471;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.285345,0.391471;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.644569,0.391471;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.606034,0.391471;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.766379,0.391471;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.125,0.125;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.285345,0.125;0.133621x0.222059)
AxesSubplot(0.285345,0.125;0.133621x0.222059)

In [24]: #checking correlation of dataset plt.figure(figsize=(20,20))
 sns.heatmap(data.corr(),annot=True)

In [25]: #removing multicollinearity by using vif acceptable range (-10 to 10) from statsmodels.stats.outliers_influence import variance_inflation_factor vif=pd.DataFrame()
 vif['features']=data.columns
 vif['vif factor']=[variance_inflation_factor(data.values,i) for i in range(data.shape[1])] vif

```
0 Gender
                                 6 146708
                        Married
                                 3.716146
           2
                                 1.789241
                    Dependents
           3 Education
                                 1.283195
                  Self_Employed
                                 1.195656
           5 ApplicantIncome
                                2.752965
           6 CoapplicantIncome
                                 1.554019
                                 6.412868
                    LoanAmount
           8
              Loan_Amount_Term
                                10.747859
           9
                   Credit_History
                                 8.934985
           10
                   Property_Area
                                2.610845
          11
                    Loan_Status
                                4.633473
          data=data.drop(['Loan_Amount_Term'],axis=1)
In [26]:
               Gender Married Dependents Education Self_Employed ApplicantIncome CoapplicantIncome LoanAmount Credit_History Property_Ar
Out[26]:
            1
                                        1
                                                  0 0 4583
                                                                                             1508.0
                                                                                                          128.0
                                                                                                                          1.0
            2
                                        0 0 3000 0.0
                                                                                                           66.0
                                                                                                                         1.0
            3
                    1
                            1
                                        0
                                                  1
                                                                0 2583
                                                                                             2358.0
                                                                                                          120.0
                                                                                                                         1.0
            4
                            0 0 0 0 6000
                                                                                                0.0
                                                                                                          141.0
                                                                                                                          1.0
            5
                                        2
                                                  0
                                                                1 5417
                                                                                             4196.0
                                                                                                          267.0
                                                                                                                         1.0
          609 0 0 0 0 0 2900
                                                                                                0.0
                                                                                                           71.0
                                                                                                                         1.0
          610
                                        4
                                                  0 0
                                                                            4106
                                                                                                0.0
                                                                                                           40.0
                                                                                                                         1.0
          611
                    1
                            1
                                        1
                                                  0 0 8072
                                                                                             240.0
                                                                                                          253.0
                                                                                                                         1.0
          612
                                        2
                                                  0 0 7583
                                                                                                0.0
                                                                                                          187.0
                                                                                                                          1.0
          613 0 0 0 0
                                                                1 4583
                                                                                                0.0
                                                                                                          133.0
                                                                                                                         0.0
          480 rows × 11 columns
In [27]:
          x=data.drop(['Loan_Status'],axis=1)
          y=data['Loan Status']
          # feature scaling
In [28]:
           from sklearn.preprocessing import StandardScaler
           std scaler=StandardScaler()
          x scaled=std scaler.fit transform(x)
In [29]: x_scaled array([[ 0.46719815,
                                  0.73716237,
                                                 0.11235219, ..., -0.20808917,
Out[29]:
                    0.41319694, -1.31886834],
                  [ 0.46719815,
                                  0.73716237, -0.70475462, ..., -0.97900085,
                                   1.25977445],
                    0.41319694,
                  [ 0.46719815,
                                   0.73716237, -0.70475462, ..., -0.30756164,
                    0.41319694,
                                  1.25977445],
                  [ 0.46719815,
                                                 0.11235219, ...,
                                  0.73716237,
                                                                    1.34616826.
                    0.41319694,
                                   1.25977445],
                  [ 0.46719815,
                                   0.73716237,
                                                 0.92945899, ...,
                                                                      0.52552034,
                                  1.25977445],
                    0.41319694,
                  \hbox{[-2.14041943, -1.35655324, -0.70475462, \dots, -0.14591887,}\\
                    -2.42015348, -0.02954695]])
In [30]: # training the model from sklearn.model selection import train test split x_train,x_test,y_train,y_test=train_test_split(x_scaled,y,test_size=0.3,random_state=45)
In [31]: x_train.shape
          (336, 10)
In [32]: y_train.shape
          (336,)
Out[32]:
```

features

In [33]: #import varies models and metrics

Out[25]:

vif factor

```
from sklearn.linear_model import LogisticRegression from sklearn.svm import SVC from sklearn.ensemble import RandomForestClassifier from sklearn.tree import DecisionTreeClassifier \textbf{from} \  \, \textbf{sklearn} \  \, \textbf{.} \textbf{model_selection} \  \, \textbf{import} \  \, \textbf{cross_val_score} from sklearn.metrics import accuracy_score,confusion_matrix,classification_report,f1_score
In [34]: #testing of accuracy of models models=[LogisticRegression(),SVC(),RandomForestClassifier(), DecisionTreeClassifier()]
          for m in models:
             print(f'{m}:')
              m.fit(x_train,y_train)
              print('Training score:',m.score(x train,y train)) print('Testing score:',m.score(x test,y test)) predm=m.predict(x_test) f1score=f1_score(y_test,predm) print('flscore:',flscore) acrscore=accuracy_score(y_test,predm) print('Accuracy score:',acrscore) crsv=cross val score(m,x scaled,y,cv=5)
              print('Cross validation mean score:',crsv.mean()) print("")
              print(''*5)
              print('\n')
         LogisticRegression():
         Training score: 0.8154761904761905
         Testing score: 0.7916666666666666
         flscore: 0.8648648648648648
         Accuracy score: 0.7916666666666666
         Cross validation mean score: 0.8020833333333334
         SVC():
         Training score: 0.8392857142857143
         Testing score: 0.784722222222222
         flscore: 0.8597285067873304
         Accuracy score: 0.784722222222222
         Cross validation mean score: 0.8104166666666666
         RandomForestClassifier():
         Training score: 1.0
         Testing score: 0.7638888888888888
         flscore: 0.8440366972477066
         Accuracy score: 0.7638888888888888
         Cross validation mean score: 0.7916666666666667
         DecisionTreeClassifier():
         Training score: 1.0
         Testing score: 0.7361111111111112
         flscore: 0.8190476190476189
         Accuracy score: 0.736111111111112
         Cross validation mean score: 0.7104166666666666
          ******
```

by using hyper parameter tuning increase the select model accuracy

```
In [35]: lr=LogisticRegression()
In [36]: param_grid=[{'penalty':['ll','l2','elasticnet','none'],'C':np.logspace(-4,4,20),'solver':['lbfgs','newton-cg','
In [37]: from sklearn.model_selection import GridSearchCV
In [38]: cif=GridSearchCV(lr,param_grid=param_grid,cv=3,verbose=True,n_jobs=-1)
In [39]: best_cif=cif.fit(x,y)
    Fitting 3 folds for each of 1600 candidates, totalling 4800 fits
In [40]: best_cif.best_estimator_
```

Loading [MathJax]/jax/output/CommonHTML/fonts/TeX/fontdata.js